

Introducing...

REALITY GAP

Alcohol, Drugs, and Sex—What Parents Don't Know and Teens Aren't Telling

Combining Stephen Wallace's twenty-five-plus years of experience with young people and their families, with reliable data collected by SADD and Liberty Mutual Insurance for the Teens Today research project, REALITY GAP (Union Square Press / August 2008 / $19.95) is an eye-opening, empowering, and essential resource for the parents of teenagers, and all who work with young people. It arms adults with facts and strategies for working with teens to overcome the dangers of this difficult time in life, including advice for how and when to talk about drinking, impaired driving, sex, drug use, depression, suicide, and bullying.

Stephen Wallace has served as chairman and CEO of SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) since 1995. He speaks frequently to young people, their parents, and professional groups about youth development and decision-making. Wallace is also a regular contributor to media stories about teens and has appeared on CNN, FOX, NBC, and PBS. He has also worked as a school psychologist, mental health worker, camp director, and college professor.

Wallace was recently honored by the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy as a leader in drug and alcohol education and prevention and by the American Camp Association for being a tireless and passionate advocate for youth.

For more info, go to RealityGapTheBook.com.

REALITY GAP

Alcohol, Drugs, and Sex

What Parents Don't Know and What Teens Aren't Telling

Pre-order a copy today at BarnesandNoble.com!

Also available for purchase in stores beginning August 5, 2008.